blue and white

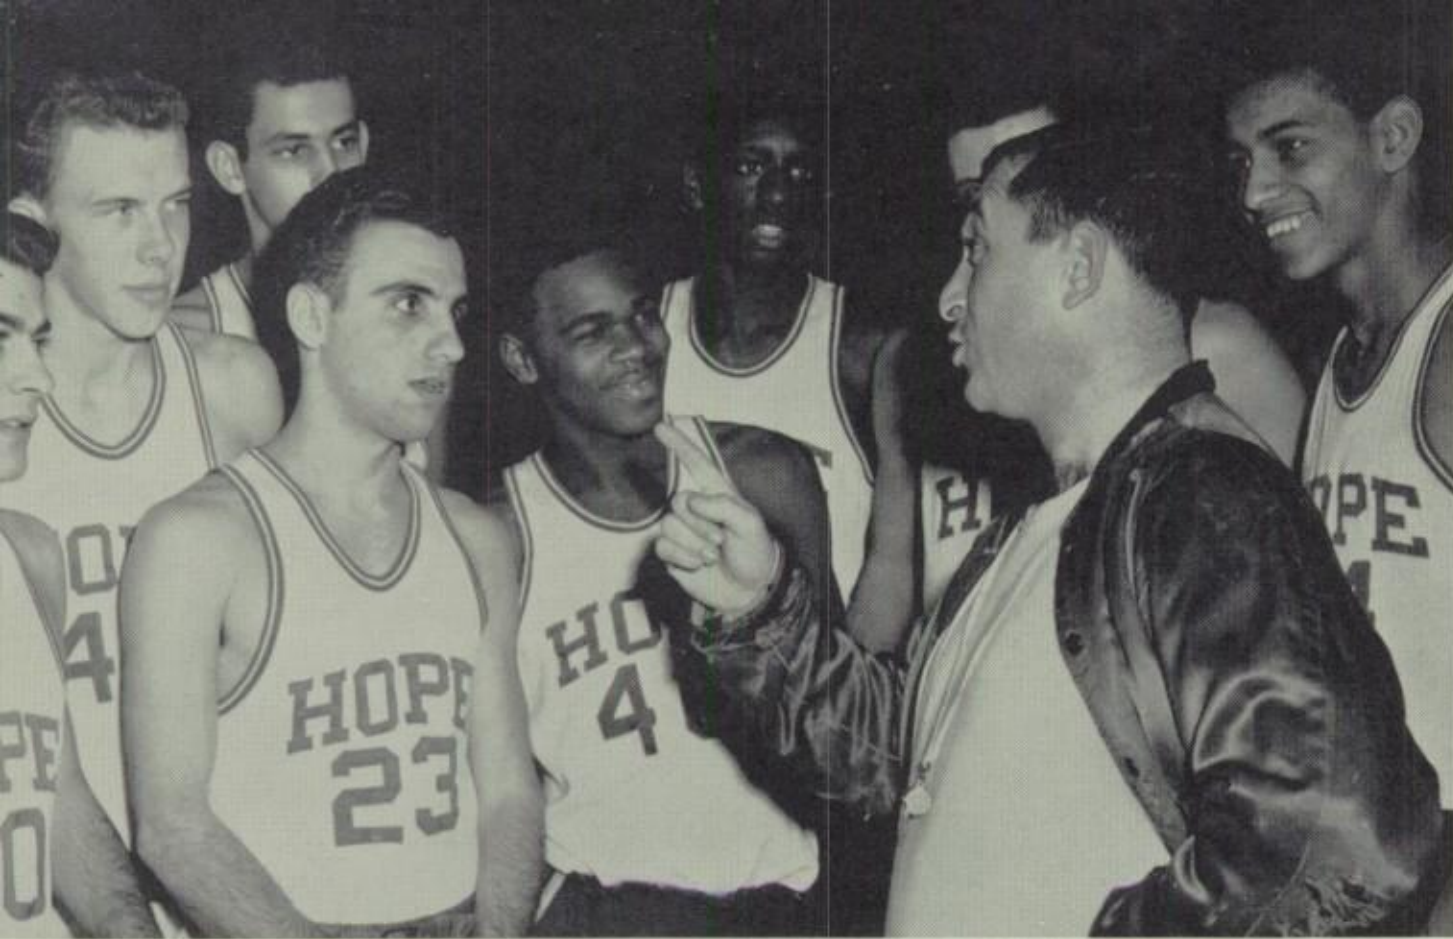

On our day of graduation we stand in reverence and respect to sing a very special song, the Alma Mater. That song must have a deep significance to be paid such homage on that momentous day in our lives.

When we look carefully at the words of the Alma Mater, we find the lyrics express more than loyalty to a school; they represent a spirit and a unique way of life — an American high school — our own high school — our Alma Mater. The people, places, and events they bring to mind are a heritage of every Hope graduate. When these details of the varied phases of student life are pieced together, there appears a complete mural of memories — the 1960 Blue and White.

to the unforgettable years just past, our hearts are filled with memories — of cokes and dances,
of games and streamers,
of going hoarse cheering for our school,
of cramming,
of learning,
of undying friendships,
of those who have been our inspiration and our guides. —

These memories present to each of us our own

“men of our hope

Mr. Howard G. Lewis, Principal

Behind every successful organization there is a capable director. Here at Hope we are fortunate to have such a director in Mr. Howard G. Lewis, our principal.

Mr. Lewis has a long and distinguished record in the field of education. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1926 and a Master's degree in 1930 from Brown University. Since then, he has taught during the summer at the old Commercial High School in Providence, at the University of St. Lawrence, and at the Northeastern University's evening classes. He was vocational counselor at Brown University's guidance center, student counselor at Commercial High School, and director of the Roger Williams Center for Adult Education. In addition, Mr. Lewis has served as a guest lecturer at the summer schools of the Universities of Maine and New Hampshire. Before becoming principal of Hope in 1956, Mr. Lewis had been assistant principal of Nathan Bishop and Roger Williams Junior High Schools, and principal of Bridgham Junior High and Central High School.

Mr. Lewis has brought with him to Hope a great wealth of experience. With his competent guidance we can be sure that in the years to come, Hope will continue to be the excellent school that it is now.

Mr. Joseph P. Delaney, Vice-Principal

As a man who has devoted his efforts to furthering education, Joseph P. Delaney can be proud of his academic background. He was graduated from Holy Cross College with a Bachelor of Science degree and received a Master's degree in Education from Rhode Island College of Education. In addition, he has taken extension courses at Providence College and Boston University.

In 1945 Mr. Delaney became assistant football coach and head basketball coach at Hope High School. Under his able management the basketball team went to the State Playoffs seven years out of twelve.

As vice-principal of Hope High, he has always taken an enthusiastic interest in all school activities, whether social, athletic, or dramatic. A strong advocate of student participation, he is proud to be associated with Hope High School. Mr. Delaney well deserves the respect that he commands from the students of Hope High.

The friendly concern of our guidance department is reflected by its members: Mrs. Gertrude Kavanagh, secretary, Mrs. Alice Jernstedt, Miss Ruth Wells, Miss Edna Macdonald, department head, Mrs. Mary Mulvey, Mr. Amadeo Lorenzo, and Mr. Leo Weiss.

guidance department

Headed by the capable Miss Edna Macdonald, the guidance department endeavors to solve the problems of each student. In this dedicated group lies the great responsibility of aiding Hope students to realize their abilities and limitations. Whether it is helping a Hopeite find and propagate his interests by recommending courses suited to individual ability, or by administering a well-deserved scolding, each student receives personal attention from his guidance teacher.

In a scene of constant activity alive with the sounds of questioning teenagers, the six guidance teachers diligently strive to give more than advice or "a shoulder to cry on"; they provide each student with a trusted friend.

“reliable advisors”

Examining the display in room 114 are Mr. Paul Mirante, Mr. Charles McGonagle, Miss Ruth Carty, Mr. Charles Matoian, and Mr. Robert Betts.

Miss Mary Crowley, Mrs. Mary Winans, Mrs. Hope Palmer, Mr. Robert Scanlan, and Mrs. Lynette Tammelleo consider the news of the day.

commercial department “business incorporated”

The mighty world of business is the basis of our democratic form of government. The commercial department with its modern equipment, its skilled teachers, and its active connection with the world of business instructs students in the fundamentals of free enterprise. It trains them in the mazes of business law and employer-employee relationships as well as the skills for keeping industry and commerce well organized and productive. Through salesmanship courses and distributive education, the department teaches Hope students how to get along in actual competition, how to promote a product, and how every rung in the ladder helps attain the end result — success.

Miss Carol Sorenson and Miss Grace Taylor pose as secretaries to Miss Barbara Murray, department head.

Brushing up on the rudiments of reading are Miss Sarah MacIntyre and Mr. Paul Donovan.

Miss Angela McDermott, department head, gives her report to Mr. William McKenna, Mrs. Frances Meeker, Mr. Paul Coleman, Mr. William Plummer, Mr. Matthew Millman, Miss Edna Keenan, Miss Martha Budlong, Miss Elaine Annotti, Mrs. Ann Carleton, Mr. Joseph Tocco, Mr. James McCaughey and Mr. James Flanagan.

The most important basic requirement for graduation is the successful completion of three years' work in English. The department, headed by Miss Angela McDermott, is dedicated to the purpose of teaching students the beauty of simple expression vital to their happiness and success. In order to more fully appreciate this art of expression, Hopeites study Milton, Hemingway, Shakespeare, and Frost among other great men whose works are so outstanding that they survive the obscuring influence of time.

The skills of reading which open to students the doors of many pleasurable hours are acquired in remedial reading, a branch of the English department, taught by Miss Sarah MacIntyre. In this course students develop better reading habits while establishing considerable speed.

foreign language “well-versed

Through the mediums of French, German, Italian, or Spanish, students are transported into a whole new world, a world in which the student is introduced not only to an unfamiliar tongue but also to new customs, new ideas, and a distinctive way of life.

Unless a student sojourns in a country, there is no better way to become acquainted with a people than to study its language. The competent language department, headed by Miss Rose Presel, opens to students a fascinating realm of interest and opportunity.

Mr. William Gugli greets Miss Rose Presel, department head, and Dr. Philomena Golini, Mrs. Priscilla Stevens, Miss Marjorie Ellis, and Miss Margaret Ellis.

And — if a student wishes to learn about the basic language from which our own and many others are derived, there is the ancient language, Latin, instructed by Mr. James Smith, chairman of the Latin department.

Students' accurate handling of Latin gratifies Mr. James Smith, chairman of the Latin department.

Algebra, basic math, calculus, geometry, and trigonometry are expertly taught by an efficient staff under the supervision of Miss Mildred Collins. A basic knowledge of mathematics is a necessity for the most fundamental of business transactions. Especially in organizations where the need for computation, bookkeeping, recording, calculating, and budgeting are required for successful operation and production, mathematics forms an integral part. In the home a careful account of expenditures is essential for utmost efficiency. Aside from those uses the technical advancement in recent years has brought about a deficit of skilled mathematicians. The department at Hope is supplying talented students for this need as well. No matter what goal a math student has in mind a substantial background is provided from the various courses offered.

science department “launching knowledge”

In this age of nuclear weapons and global diplomats, there is a need for scientists; the demands of the future will increase the plea. In our school the scientifically minded student is nurtured and inspired to further his scientific interests. At Hope there are a multitude of science courses: biology, chemistry, electricity, general science, photography, and physics. Whether the student desires to learn the basic principles of a science, or to utilize the information for concentration in higher learning, the science department at Hope, headed by Mr. Robert Gurnham, endeavors to satisfy his needs. In keeping with this idea, the department has expanded its course of study to include advanced courses in biology, chemistry, and physics. An ambitious student can obtain an excellent scientific background from the courses offered at Hope High.

Miss Grace Arnold watches Mr. Edward Cunningham make a shocking discovery as Mr. Joseph DiPalma observes Mr. Robert Gurnham, department head, operate the Wimshurst machine.

Department environment”

History is a record of the past, which touches all aspects of human activity. It is studied to give an understanding of the role of man in society by reviewing his past achievements. Basically the problems that confront man have changed little through the centuries; it is their setting that is different.

The department under the leadership of Miss Anna Dowling offers students diversified courses such as American and European history, civics, and world problems so that students are able to acquire a broad knowledge of historical development.

The girls' gym is the background for Miss Helen Wrynn, Miss Bertha McKee, and Miss Agnes Flaherty, department head, with Mrs. Mary Holton, accompanist.

Meanwhile, the boys are strengthening their manly physiques by utilizing the apparatus and sports equipment during their gym period.

The excellent art courses at Hope allow students to develop their talent. Accelerated courses are offered to creative students in order to encourage them to express their individuality by working on their own projects.

Fortunate are those students who appreciate such masters of music as Brahms, Beethoven, Tschaikowsky. Here at Hope we have the opportunity to learn about these masters and of furthering musical interests in the music appreciation and history course instructed by Mrs. Dorothy Brown.

Mr. Anthony Dattoro and Miss Frances Burnham, department head, confer before an appropriate artistic display.

ome economics

Manual dexterity, a criterion for many vocations, is a skill developed in industrial art courses such as wood-working, jewelry, and auto mechanics. In these important workshops at Hope, students are afforded an insight into their future vocations.

Downstairs at Hope High the home economics rooms are alive with the humming of female voices—voices of girls preparing to take their places in the world in such capacities as dress designers, dietitians, or home-makers.

Mr. John Fay is a new addition to our faculty in a specialized field.

Cheerful, energetic Mrs. Marian Strauss expertly manages the diverse duties that make her so vital to Hope High. Whether it is directing a senior play, aiding the cheerleaders in procuring new uniforms, supervising a Junior Red Cross meeting, or guiding the Student Council, Mrs. Strauss' sponsorship will make the project praise-worthy.

With affable Miss Katherine Galivan in charge of the vast store of treasures in the Hope library a student can always be certain of attaining expert guidance in choosing a book. For important research work, preparation for that long term paper, or just leisure reading, the well-stocked library is an ideal refuge for book-loving Hopeites.

Be it aspirins, a peppermint drink, or advice, Miss Mary Brennan, our capable school nurse, will supply the need in exchange for a pass.

The hustle and constant activity significant of the office make it the busiest room at Hope. Taking care of transcripts, late slips, daily bulletins, and telephone calls are just a few of the duties of our efficient office-workers.

Keeping record of student finances and collecting money for school activities are a few of the myriad tasks tackled by industrious workers in the S.A.O. Directed by Mr. Ruoff, the S.A.O. offers its services to students before school and during three periods of the school day.

One of the most active organizations at Hope is the group of ushers who perform their duties at senior plays, pep rallies, assemblies and many civic and community programs. Under the leadership of Donald Gregory, January head usher, and Howard Rabinowitz, June head usher, the boys have always succeeded in bringing order from the chaos caused by confused throngs of assembly goers.

The Library Assistants supervised by Miss Katherine Gallivan help keep the many affairs of the library in order. Besides the task of arranging books on the shelves, the girls often collect fines at the desk, run errands, and furnish information to students and teachers.

The many plants and flowers around the school are the contribution of the Conservatory Aids. Working under the direction of Mr. C. Gordon Dummer, the small group spends its "H" periods and before-school time planting, transplanting, and engaging in other numerous horticultural pursuits.

The Stage Crew is also on hand at every assembly to provide lighting and necessary props.

An audio-visual educational program is being initiated here at Hope to supplement the classroom work. This type of education has already proven very successful in many phases of our curriculum. A crew of projectionists is being trained, and Mrs. Strauss hopes to have one trained projectionist available each period for classroom movies and filmstrips.

The Future Nurses of Hope High School are pursuing their careers with the keen interest and zest that is a necessity for good nursing. Each member is hopeful of becoming either a practical nurse, a registered nurse, or a collegiate nurse. Should these girls continue with such vitality, there is little doubt of a successful result.

Charity begins at 'Hope' with the Junior Red Cross members collecting useful articles to send to less fortunate children in other lands. Besides this important function the busy group, directed by Mrs. Marian Strauss, arranges parties for children in neighboring hospitals as well as lends support to several community projects.

In September, 1959 a new system was inaugurated for electing members of the Student Council. This system is based on ability rather than popularity, and those elected have proven worthy of their honor. The success of this new program, founded by Mrs. Strauss, will be rewarded by giving more control to the representative body of students.

In the Future Teachers Club students, directed by Miss Elaine Annotti, hold discussions, participate in field trips and meetings with other such groups in the area, and entertain guest speakers. Through this club, students who share a common desire to enter the field of teaching gain an insight into a highly rewarding profession.

One year ago Hope High School was selected by the Federal C.D. Administration to receive monitoring equipment. Students in the accelerated physics program are trained in the uses of the equipment so that in time of emergency they will be of service to the community.

The fascinating slide rule with its maze of figures teases the imagination of a venturesome group of Hopeites with a more than passive mathematical curiosity. Mr. Cavaretta, their sponsor, patiently explains the varied uses of this instrument in the solving of many types of mathematical problems.

Sparkling with the life of busy school days, the Hope Log has assumed new importance as the voice of the student body. It appears four times a term, eight issues annually, and covers every phase of student life at Hope. It is the eyes and ears of the school.

Year at hope high

They met last spring, got acquainted last summer, and became constant friends this year. Then the Blue and White and its staff faced the hazards of 1960 together.

The yearbook staff started to cooperate when the September deadline loomed before them. In late August they raced madly after banners and somersaults. From October to January they harassed the faculty, took activity and homeroom pictures, and launched the senior section. February found them searching among the senior, advertising, and sports sections for another sixty-four pages. By March they raced to fill the remaining gaps in the book.

In the interim the circulation and publicity staffs slaved to sell yearbooks. The circulation and advertising staffs used varied selling techniques to gain revenue with which to arm the business managers.

Now, because the Blue and White was protected by its staff and guardian advisor, Mr. Paul Mirante, the 1960 edition will live happily ever after.

Able coached by Mr. Paul Donovan, Hope High School's 1959 baseball team posted a six win-eight defeat record in the Metropolitan division. Tying LaSalle for fifth place, the squad lost four 1-run games. They included a first-round 2-1 defeat at the hands of Cranston, second round losses to fourth place East Providence and third place Mount Pleasant, and a thrilling 1-0 ball game to division champion Warwick.

Outfielder Jim Egan was responsible for spoiling a Townie pitcher's six inning no-hit, no-run stand in the season's opener. After losing to East Providence, the Wave faced LaSalle. Star relief pitcher Karl Sudakoff took his place on the mound and pitched five innings of shut-out ball. Throughout the 1959 circuit, Sudakoff made his strong arm felt. Mr. Donovan looks toward Karl as his prime pitcher in the 1960 season. Returning also will be Ray LaFleur, who homered in the Classical game (8-2), and Bob Kozak, who accounted for an important run against Cranston (5-1). The varsity lineup will most certainly miss the fine fielding and hitting of Captain Ron Price, who hit a single, a double, and a triple in a 10-3 first round walloping of Mount Pleasant. Another fine fielder and hitter idle during the 1960 season will be spirited Marsh Gerstenblatt.

Mr. Falk's 1959 track forces exhibited great depth and strength in retaining the outdoor state title for the second consecutive year. Winning such contests as the Class A Relay Carnival, the Kingston or University of Rhode Island Interscholastics, and Brown Interscholastics, a meet which draws entrants from many sections of the East Coast, and the State Meet, the squad brought both honor and glory to Hope High School.

Although losing such All-State material as hurdler Steve Cummings and high jumper Lynwood Young, Coach Falk eyes a successful 1960 course.

Returning lettermen who will boost the scores are hammer-thrower Bob Gourley, dash men Howie Rabinowitz and Lummer Jennings, high jumper Gil Ekdahl, who with Bill Guy will run the hurdles, Walt Hayman, a potential All-State shotputter, and javelin thrower Ed Brookner.

Football

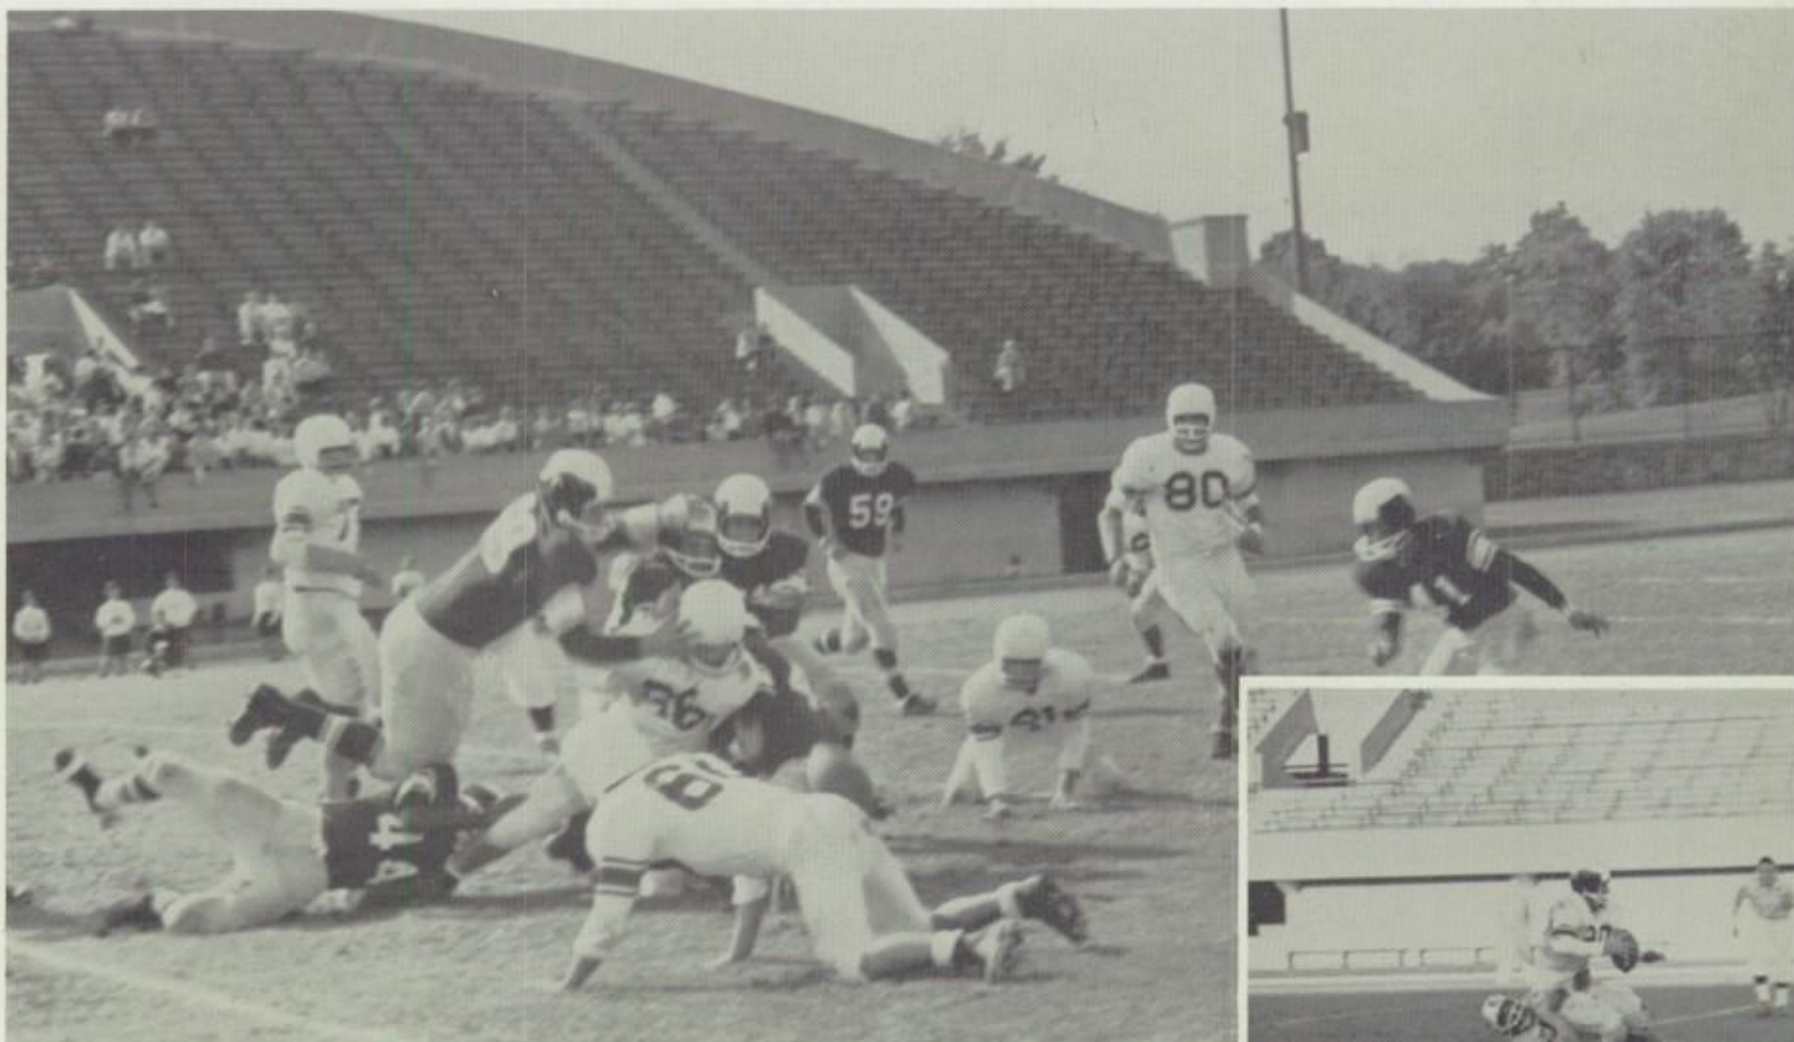

The spirited Blue Wave football team with its best Class A record in five years proved to be an outstanding defensive ball club. With All-Class A defensive gridders Ron Barboza, Al Riley, and Mike Sears, the squad held stalwarts La Salle and Mount Pleasant to six points. Strong offensive play from linemen like All-State guard John Mello accounted for the victories of the season.

Head coach, Ed Mullen, altered his plays and produced a fine fullback option which often clicked from the fingers of fullback Jim Mullen to ends Bill Guy, Joe Bochar, and Sylverio Fortes. Line coach Mike Sarkesian drove his charges, and their quick openings and reflexes trapped many outstanding Class A backs and fumbles. The 1959 campaign was highlighted by a 9-6 tripping of East Providence's Townies, a 13-0 shut-out over the Green Bolt from Cranston, which ended an eight year reign for Cranston over Hope in these contests, and a most impressive victory over Warwick's Hurricanes, 13-6, in which Herb McMillan's last minute 80 yard run will remain as a precedent of the '60 span.

Other gridironmen to be commended were backs, Bob Gourley and Howie Robinowitz, and linemen, Mike Rocchio, Bob Meadows, Bob Donnelly, and Bruce McGuirl. Mr. Mullen and Mr. Sarkesian inevitably will coach a spectacular team next season as backs Mike Sears, Jim Mullen, Herb McMillan, Charles Riter, and J. V. quarterback Frank Hardy return with determined linemen, Ed McDonough, John Baeszler, Ronald Barboza, Joseph Golembeski, and Dick Zuercher.

Undoubtedly, Coach Falk could not have sought a better Cross Country march. Throughout the course, the Hill and Dalers shaded strong LaSalle; it was not until the State Meet that the Smith Hillers marooned the East Siders by a slim nine point margin. The Harriers hold the 1959 titles of Dual Meet Champions, City Meet Champions, and Class A Champions.

The squad, although stocked with many first year men, ran rampant. Marshall Gerstenblatt, a novice in this particular sport, set a Butler course record of 12:45 for the 2.5 mile run in the last dual competition of the year. This feat and others boasted of Marshall's being selected as an All-Stater; it was the first time in the history of Hope's Cross Country team that a first year man has ever been placed in that capacity. Captain Evans Carter, who was outstanding throughout the matches, was runner-up City Champion. Noteworthy of the 1960 series was Hope's 4-3 victory over Classical. This was the first time in three years that a Hope dueling team had beaten City Champion Classical. Outstanding also were Bill Bissell, Sanford Shaw, and returning foilers Armand Beaudry, Arthur Capaldi, Bob Puopolo, Ronald Marinaro, and Saul Korn. Mr. McGunagle's opposing teams will have to be "on guard" next term.

The wrestling team also had a new coach for its 1960 stand. Coach Raymond Venditti molded his grapplers into a formidable group. In the Rhode Island Injury Fund matches, Hope matmen from the 138 lb. weight class to the unlimited grouping won their preliminaries. John Del Gardo wrestled right into the finals only to be turned back. Meanwhile Mike Holmes, who later in the season proved to be a state contender in his class, defeated an opponent for a third place in the consolation finals. Although the team victories do not indicate a successful season, Captain Ted Tyszkowski at 167 lbs., John Del Gardo at 157, Mike Holmes, next year's captain-elect and outstanding 147 pounder, and Jim Masterson, a lightweight, were the most consistent performers.

Next winter might host double victorious sports under the helms of both Mr. McGunagle and Mr. Venditti.

State track crown

Sweeping the Relay Carnival, Mr. Falk's 1960 indoor track team followed through with a defeatless season. In the Relay meet, the quartet of Lummer Jennings, Frank Nesbitt, Howie Rabinowitz, and Jim Flink set two records, in the one and two-lap relays, respectively. This foursome is ranked as the number two 1,000-yard run relay team in the nation. Besides turning in fantastic times as a quartet, these runners were stalwarts in the state meet. Jennings won the 40-yard dash, setting a Cranston Street Armory record as well as one in the Interscholastic League. Jim Flink equalled the Interscholastic League time in the 45-yard high hurdles and 45-yard low hurdles. Howie Rabinowitz, meanwhile, won the 300-yard run, and Frank Nesbitt ran second to Flink in the low hurdles. Gil Ekdahl, the state's best high-jump contender, easily surpassed the second place jumpers, and Walter Hayman put the shot 49'7", which placed him second.

Although Mr. Falk lost two of his better long distance men, Ben Kasper and Ed Fishburn, he had Dennis Ferrara and Clyde Holland to fill their shoes. Among other trackmen to be commended are John Clark and John Cardoza, high-jumpers; John Warner, shotputter; John Morgan and John Grant, milers; and Charles Price, long distance runner.

▲ "Like, Man, I'm way out in front." Dennis Ferrara takes the baton from Ed Fishburn and attempts to cop the race in the Relay Carnival.

▲ Second fastest 1,000-yard relay team in the United States. Coach Falk's Lummer Jennings, James Flink, Frank Nesbitt, and Howie Rabinowitz pause for some well deserved publicity.

strong quintet tumbles divisional champion from unbeaten ranks but . . .

◀ "Coach," say Tom Cannon, Frank Smith, and Marshall Gerstenblatt, "what did you think of the P.C. game?"

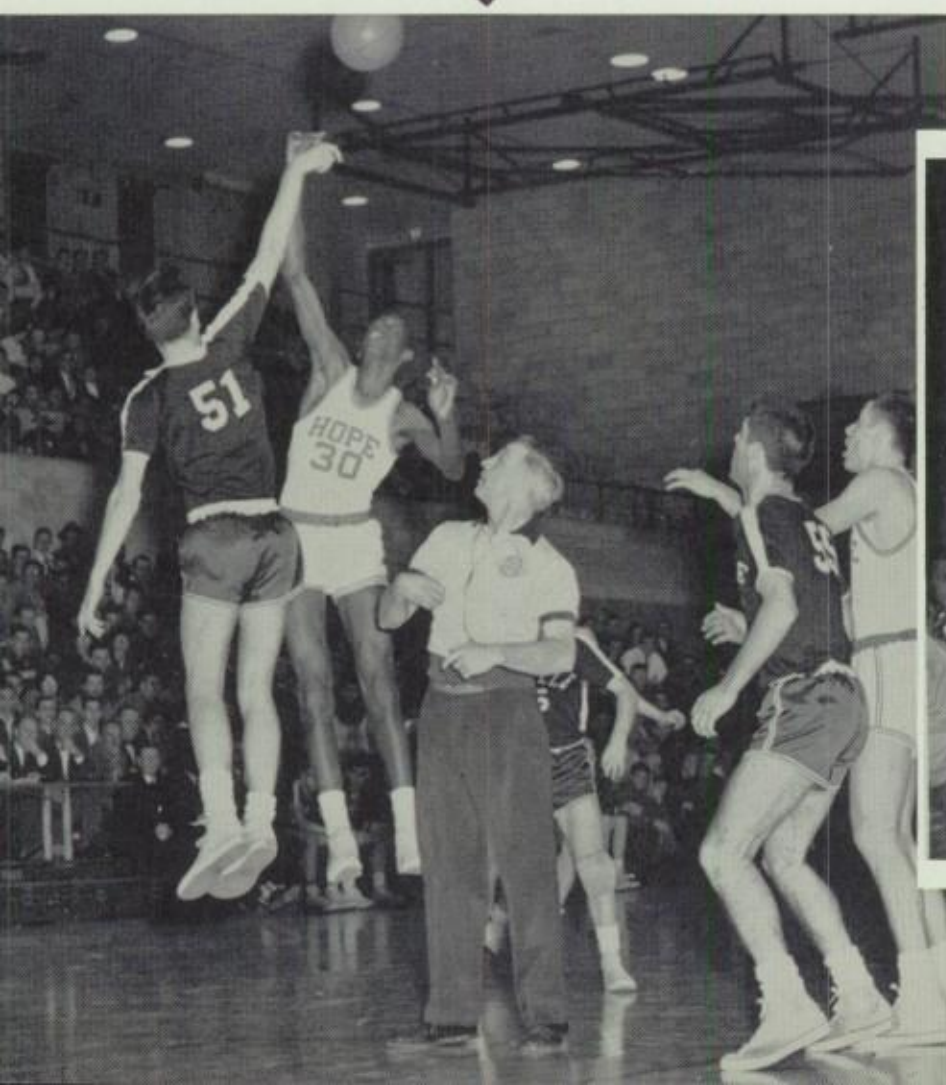

After impressive mastering of Classical, Sacred Heart, Tolman, De La Salle, stubborn Westerly, Pawtucket West, and East Providence in non-league games, the East Siders outshot an unrelenting Cranston East team in its league debut. Board commanders Carl Chase and Al Lopes aided in the victories that followed over Central, Warwick, Rogers, and Mount Pleasant. Mr. Sarkesian, foreseeing a tight squeeze with contending La Salle, readily sent Marshall Gerstenblatt and Herbert McMillan into action on the evening of January 22. With but five minutes left in the decisive battle, the Wave came alive. Baskets by Lopes and Smith, and two foul shots from Tom Cannon renewed the Blue's spirit, but the Maroon had turned their baskets from the Blue. Following that upset, the Hoopsters returned to the hardwood floor determined to outpoint any and all opponents. Some brilliant scoring from Silverio Fortes and Hank Giroux insured the following victories.

On February 2, the wave met the Warwick Hurricanes. Storming the Wave, Warwick held Hope to one of its lowest scores in many a combat and drifted into a second place tie with the Blue Wave. An easy win over Mount Pleasant, and the Cagers faced league leader La Salle again. A record crowd jammed the Hope gymnasium, and the Wave, reigning State Champions, spotted La Salle from a perfect Metropolitan Division sweep by outshining the Smith Hillers. Entering the play-offs, the fast breaking squad beat both Sacred Heart and South Kingston by identical scores, 78-50. It was not until the semi-finals at Providence College's Alumni Hall that the team lost to a strengthened La Salle array. Outscored but far from outplayed, the crew relinquished its state crown.

Following the loss of Silverio Fortes and Co-captain Marshall Gerstenblatt through January graduation, Coach Sarkesian turned to Carl Chase, Herbert McMillan, Tom Cannon, Al Lopes, and Co-captain Frank Smith for his mainstay. Abetting the campaign on many important occasions were Henry Giroux, Norm Lambert, Richard Papazian, and Dave Lieberman. Returning next basketball season will be Chace, McMillan, Cannon, Lopes, Giroux, Lambert, and Dave Lieberman. With a cast like this, Hope is certain to again capture the Metropolitan and State Championships.

"Jump ball!" Norm Lambert tips off to his anxiously waiting teammates during the State Semi-Finals.

"I have it!" Dave Lieberman and Richard Papazian battle with some Vikings from Newport in the 80-54 routing of Rogers. Previous to this victory, the Hoopsters battled with Warwick to a 64-62 'sudden death' overtime win.

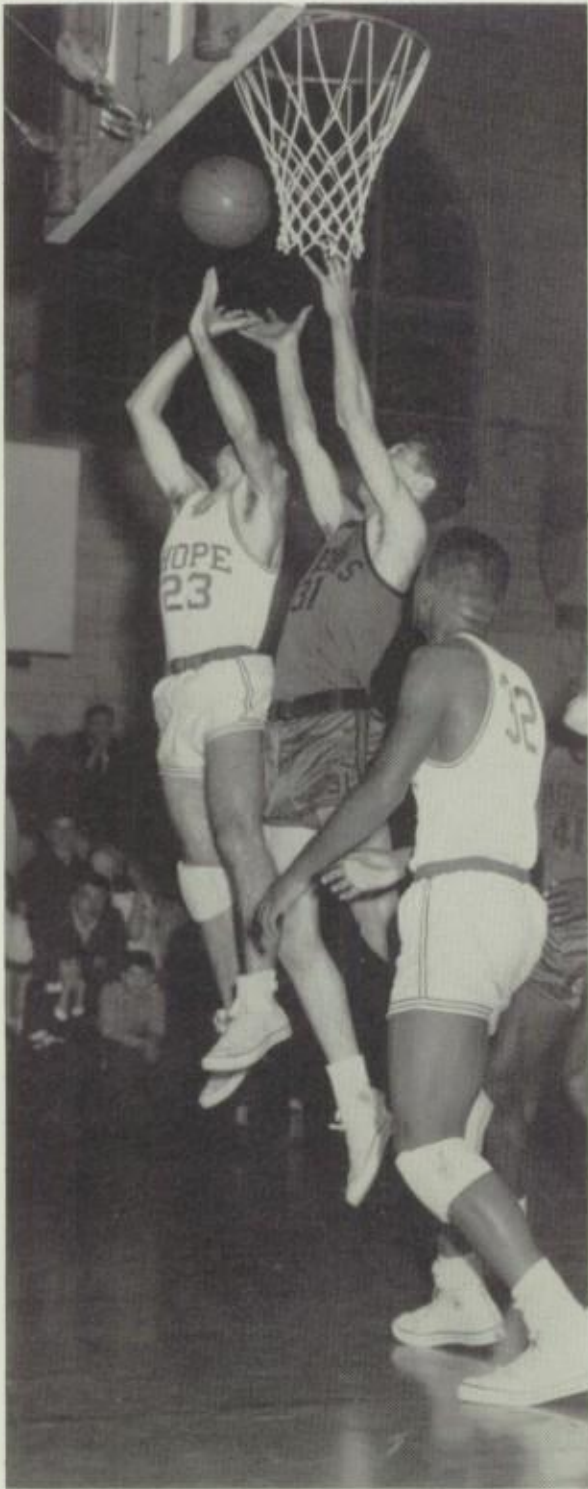

"No unnecessary fouls," shouts Coach Sarkesian as his quintet listens attentively. His cry was adhered to, and the Wave trounced Westerly in a pre-league encounter.

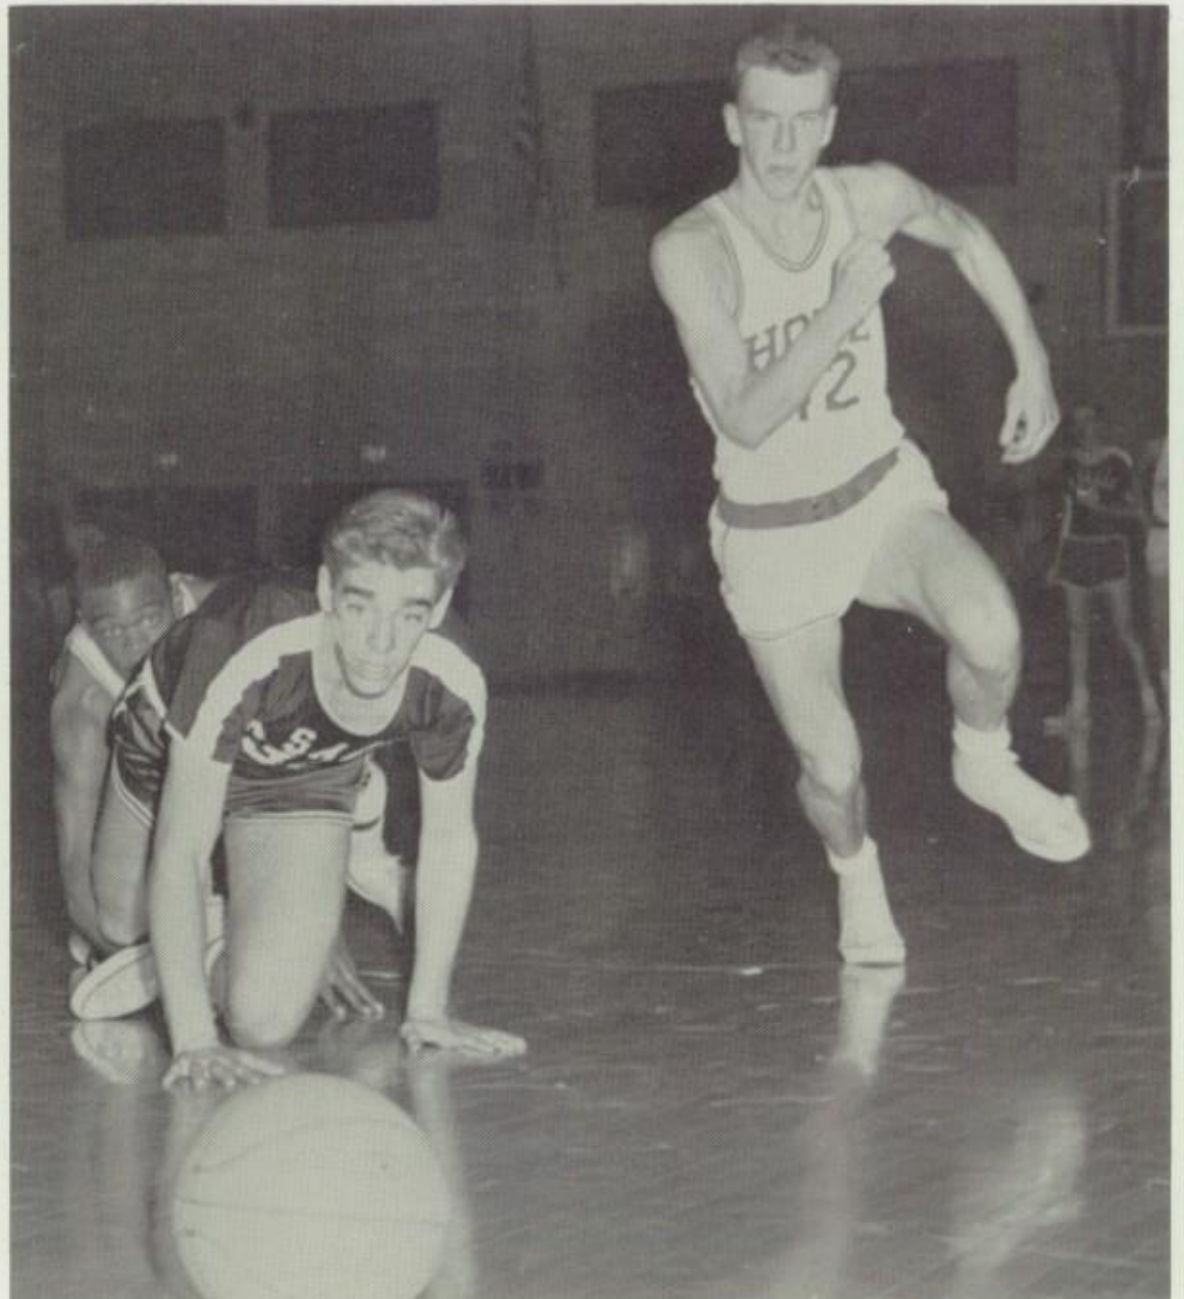

... tripped in semi-finals

▲ Herb McMillan speedily receives a pass during the first quarter of the semi-finals.

▲ "Come on, Marsh." Co-captain Marshall Gerstenblatt (23) taps in a rebound as teammate Butch Fortes (32) is set to aid the cause. Fortes scored 13 points during this game; Frank Smith (42) was high scorer with 21 points.

▲ "You have got to be on the ball!" Herb McMillan has just stolen the ball from a La Sallean and Co-captain Frank Smith rushes to assist him.

"Two points." Henry Giroux scores an important basket during the Sacred Heart-Hope tussle at East Providence. The Wave won with a 78-50 score and assured itself of a quarter-finals berth.

"Let's do it again!" Throughout the winter months, Al Lopes (jumping) and Carl Chase (right) retrieved rebounds outstandingly.

"It's magic." Tom Cannon appears to be casting a hex upon the Warwick Hurricanes. Although Cannon called upon the wonders of the supernatural, Hope lost an important game.

Noteworthy Bill Piccirillo, a quick and nimble sophomore, wards off an opposing defenseman.

Coach Ed Mullen's 1960 Bladesmen deserve the esteem and credit that have been awarded to them. A fourth ranking Rhode Island Interscholastic hockey squad, the Blue shutout league title holder Cranston on three consecutive occasions and busted the Burrillville Broncos on two other opportunities during their ascent to the state title.

Three first round defeats spurred the Wave. With renewed fervor, the icemen in the second round swept past Mount St. Charles and Warwick. Bombarding both East Providence and North Providence; the Wave was attested to be the strongest offensive sextet. Fine performances were turned in by Jim Mullen, Al Riley, Ryder Kenney, Bob Gaudreau, Rollie Woodcock, Dave Milligan, Bill Piccirillo, and, of course, spectacular goalie Mike Sears.

Repeating last year's playing tactics, Jim Mullen, Al Riley, and Mike Sears continually showed their All-State potentialities. Without a doubt, Mullen and Riley were the best scoring combination in high school hockey, while Mike Sears was the stellar defensive player in the state.

The New England Interscholastic hockey playoff sported some of the finest high school hockey ever exhibited at the Rhode Island Auditorium in the 1960 season.

Most appropriately the sports season finished in a true blaze of glory.

a busy year

Girls who participate in after-school sports each week for a period of eight weeks are entitled to a small letter and a certificate of their achievement. A major letter is awarded to any girl who has accumulated eight certificates.

of girls' sports

Every Monday for eight weeks girls, under the direction of Miss Agnes Flaherty, play badminton. Outstanding in the competition are Joan and Merylyn Rondeau, Elaine Bourck, and Sylvia Zammaron. The girls learn the value of good sportsmanship as well as basic badminton skills.

◀ Elaine Bourck uses all her effort to hit back the birdy in an exciting match.

"I'll just check my score again," says Sharon Askins. Seated are (l-r) Linda Morola, Fran Jacobson, and Brenda Sarat.

n competitive skills

At 2:40 on Monday afternoons Sullivan's Bowling Alley on North Main St. is the gathering place for Hope High girls who are interested in improving their bowling and qualifying for a minor letter.

The competition is keen, and the position as high scorer changes almost every week. A few of the more outstanding bowlers are Lynn Robertson, Regina Rodrigues, Dorothy Pontarelli, Sharon Askins, and Joan Manekofsky.

hope girls

Each week Miss Bertha McKee's volleyball teams challenge each other in friendly competition. The girls are more interested in fun than in winning, and their ball-playing skill increases from their after-school workouts. Although the "unbeatables" took the top honors in playing skill, there are many other good players, among them, May Bruins and Marjorie and Shirley Clark.

Under the guidance of Miss Helen Wrynn and Bud Latham, the instructor at the Boys' Club pool, Hope's mermaids show great promise and progress rapidly in their swimming prowess.

At the last meeting of the girls' swim group, Mr. Latham arranged a program that included contests in the freestyle, sidestroke, backstroke, and diving.

presented by the january class of 1960

"What's the use of wond'rin' if he's good or if he's bad," reflects Julie, Elaine Leum.

A blare of music and a panorama color opens our play.

"See how helpless ya kin make a guy?" asks Ficsur, Don Gregory, of Marie, Marcia Iacobucci.

"All the crazy notions ya kep' shet up fer the winter come whoopin' out . . ."
BECAUSE IT'S JUNE!"

Dave Chase pleads his case before Star-keeper, Howard Blunt, while Liliom waits his turn.

As Mrs. Muskat, Mary Meinhold, belittles Julie about Liliom, Marie looks on, trying to help.

Heavenly and earthly creatures meet—our cherub, B. Greer, our ballerina, Nancy Broomfield, and our Heavenly Friend, Ben Kasper.

Sly Ficsur, Don Gregory, and cautious Liliom, George Schobel, play a game of blackjack while on the docks.

"Walk on, walk on with hope in your heart, and you'll never walk alone," is sung by members of the graduation class with Liliom urging them on.

"Could you tell me the time, Sir?" asks Liliom of Mr. Linzman, Mike DeFrancesco, as Ficsur attacks from behind.

Although we are the directors of our futures, the pathways that we seek may very well be a result of your influence. You have helped to mold our characters and personalities while eagerly showing us how to prepare for approaching adulthood.

For the ambition and confidence which you have stirred in us we will be forever indebted. A final warm thank-you is our attempt to express deepest appreciation to you for the lofty ideals and high standards which you have made so much a part of our lives.

"THIS ABOVE ALL, TO THINE OWN SELF BE TRUE" (Shakespeare)

It has taken me seventeen years even to begin to understand the meaning of the statement, "To thine own self be true." I knew that there was a significance behind those words, but it was rather vague and incomprehensible, something to read and pass over without thought. Now I am beginning to understand the implications in that quotation. I believe it expresses the key to true peace and happiness.

There is so much we do not know and can never expect to understand: life and death, the beginning and the end, the reasons for creation. And in this generation, life has become more complex than ever before. In order to live sanely and contentedly in the midst of this age of science and progress and prosperity, in the midst of political unrest and nuclear weapons and world tension, we need to establish a lasting peace with ourselves. This peace can come only from knowing ourselves and living realistically with day to day truth.

Certainly everyone has faults; often these are magnified out of proportion; sometimes, diminished excessively. But there must come a time when these flaws are recognized and put in proper perspective. People who go through life casting a spray of half-truths and exaggerations in their wake must live with inner conflict and unrest. They themselves can sense their own failures, and failure can only defeat when it is unrecognized and embellished.

The only solution is to live to satisfy our own standards. Other people's opinions are important, but they vary and are no more perfect than the people who voice them. In the end the only person who counts is oneself. From your conscience there is no escape.

Many people live by the standards of material gains. They allow their greed and jealousy to blind them from the deeper more meaningful blessings of life. The ironical truth is that those they envy lack their own unrecognized treasures of love, health, friendship, or faith. The circle is a pathetic one; these people never learned to be true to themselves.

Now I am nearing my graduation, and I am beginning to realize and accept the responsibilities which lie ahead. I can look around me and see things in a new light, and I know that time will bring me a deeper wisdom and understanding of the very things I am just beginning to recognize. But every life should have a guiding light, a sort of measuring stick, to look to when problems arise which must be faced alone. The child needs no inner guide; that is what parents are for. But later that inner resource is the thing which enables us to endure life realistically. For me that guide will be truth to myself and all that implies: self-respect, honor, and faith in God.

MAN'S EXPANDING UNIVERSE

I am seventeen years old. By the time I am twenty-five man will have reached the moon. When I am forty, man will be on one of the inner planets.

All this may be just daydreaming, but I believe it is true. Mankind, today, is on the way to a brand new experience. For the first time, he will travel to a place which is completely alien to him, where he will be completely unprepared for life. Perhaps he will not be able to exist there at all, but I do not think this is true. One of life's prime facets is adaptability. Plants and animals exist everywhere and have adapted themselves to their surroundings. Man, because of superior reasoning powers, will adapt more readily than lower forms of life to unsuitable climes, but not necessarily more suitably, for his adaptations will be mechanical and temporary. Where an animal or fish might take generations to change genetically, man will put on outer garments, carry what will not be available to him naturally, and walk forth to face danger and physical harm if his technology is not sufficiently advanced to protect him.

In the present and very near future, our horizons will be advanced enormously — almost without end. However, many voices are crying out against our straining for these horizons at a too fast rate. On our earth, we have many problems facing us which are as important if not more so than our dreams for the future. To some extent, I agree with these people opposing rapid exploration into outer space. I agree to the point where all our technology should not be expended for weapons of war and dreams of the future. Man has many problems to solve right in his present environment: the feeding of starving millions in far eastern countries, transforming of deserts into farmlands, and a geometrically growing population which will soon outstrip the present resources of the earth. All these problems and many more are important now and will be far more important in the future. We must look back to ourselves and correct our own faults while we are looking ahead.

Many books and stories have been written about what will happen when man finally leaves the earth. One of the questions asked in some of these stories is, "If a race or people is advanced enough to have space travel and all its connotations, can it still be primitive enough to settle its disputes through war?" Here is our problem. All our thinking is going out; none is reflecting on the individual and his fellows. All of our brilliant men are becoming men of great repute in the physical sciences. What we need in this time is a man to tell the people of the earth what is wrong with them, to tell them how to stop this sickness of forgetting the individual and his peaceful cohabitation with others on this earth, which has enveloped us, before we carry it with us and spread it to vaster areas.

All these problems I feel sure can be solved. The people of the world possess reasoning power to see a great fact if it is set before them logically. Soon, we should no longer be a group of separate states, struggling for power. Ideally, of necessity, we must be one world, united for the good of all. In the future, I can see the end of the world . . . —and the beginning of the universe.

our tribute to — mrs

From our first confused days at Hope to our triumphant graduation, we have felt your influence surround us. Your ready smile, friendly pat on the back, and encouraging wink have time and again recovered us from our greatest disappointments. A sincere expression of regret, a thoughtful remembrance, a timely reminder, a program suggestion—these, too, are our memories of your sincerity and dedication.

Lectures, lectures, and more lectures you have given us for our well-being both in high school and in later life. Now, with future plans confirmed we gratefully pause to give you, Mrs. Jerstedt, our heartfelt thanks.

WHAT EDUCATION IS BEST IN A DEMOCRACY

In the United States of America there is a democratic system of government. The freedom which the word "democratic" entails exists in every facet of our American lives, and the responsibility to maintain and to insure our freedom rests within the confines of each individual.

The necessity of understanding and answering the question "What is a democracy?" has been realistically demonstrated to our parents and grandparents by the two violent world wars of this century. And even now for those who watched anxiously through the tumultuous years at the fatal results incurred by one seemingly insignificant country after another, no re-emphasis on the value of freedom is necessary.

But what of the present generation of youth? We have witnessed no war; we have never been defenders of a war-struck nation, and neither have we been required to endure the grief of losing a son, a brother, a childhood friend on the battlefield of a distant region. How can we be made to cherish the ideals and respect the doctrines of democracy? We do not know what it is like to live in a country regimented by harsh governmental interference; we do not even know what it is like as an observer of such a condition.

If we as adults are expected to continue enforcing this democracy and are thrust with the responsibilities of our freedom, we must first be educated to accept the challenge. Just as this challenge is an imposing and encompassing one, the education to prepare for it must be exhaustive and thorough. The laborious task of enlightening a generation of carefree youth to grasp the concept of representative democracy must be complied with, for the lax attitude of a new generation of adults toward democratic ideals will be accompanied by the same laxity in the support of these ideals. To keep the country free, our insurance lies not in high-powered defense equipment but the callow minds of the country's youth—we, the students of today.

Many signs of our disinterest in the fundamentals of a democratic government have been recognized by worried parents and educators. These signs, although not directly concerned with the nation, are very closely related. Disrespect is the most prominent—the disrespect shown both at home and in the classroom. Parents blame themselves for this situation by regretting the disposal of the "old wood shed" and other similar devices. Teachers blame our parents for not exercising their authority to control and suppress the situation at home. This same disrespect that is becoming so noticeable and alarming has spread to the penal code as well. The juvenile offenders are increasing in number with each passing year. With this same display of indifference and defiance that we greet our parents, our teachers, and our laws, we will greet the requirements of a democracy until abuse can be no longer absorbed and the democracy must give way.

The education of the country's youth must reach his every experience and his whole environment, not just the five hours a day spent in schools. In the remaining hours of the day the thoughts and actions of a young adult are revealed and exposed to suggestion—perhaps even assistance. It is in these quiet hours that education must be geared to take its effect.

QUESTIONS THAT SCIENCE CAN NOT ANSWER

Sandra Price

The twentieth century has, thus far, been an era of amazing progress, particularly in the field of science. In all probability, the next few decades will witness even more startling changes in man's everyday life. In my own lifetime, I have seen, and accepted as commonplace, things beyond the realm of imagination to my parents at my age. I have grown up with television, electronic brains, jet planes, high-speed automobiles, miracle drugs, and all sorts of automatic devices for eliminating work and making life easier. Ever since my entering school, the wonders of science have been impressed upon me. Because of science we can live longer and better; because of science we can do a great deal to benefit our fellow men; and now, because of science, we can destroy each other with practically no effort at all.

Despite the amazing progress science has made, there are many things it does not know; there are many things it will never know. As Horace, the Roman writer and philosopher, said, "It is not permitted to know all things." One of the biggest mysteries that science cannot fathom is that of the human mind. Doctors today know a great deal about the mechanical workings of the body; they have even found ways of reproducing artificially certain organs, but what do they really know about that intricate and fantastic center of man's being, the mind? What makes some people geniuses? Why do people think as they do? What accounts for the seemingly erratic distribution of intelligence, the one facet of a person's make-up about which he can do nothing? Through scientific research, ways have been found to enhance one's physical appearance; people have been helped by psychiatrists to effect personality changes, but science knows no formula for intelligence. Education can supplement intelligence, but nothing science can do will either create or replace it.

Just as intelligent men have sought the answers to physical and scientific problems, so have they sought the answers to such questions as what is Truth, and why seek it; and similarly, why seek wisdom and understanding? What is virtue and why try to attain it? Is death an end, or a beginning? Some of the greatest writers and philosophers in the history of the world have endeavored to answer these questions. There are many conflicting ideas, which are still being argued today.

It would seem that after hundreds of years of argument and meditation, some conclusions would have been reached. That these questions are still open to argument only proves that there is no definite answer to ideas that affect the human mind individually. There is no hidden cave full of wisdom and understanding. These valuable assets can be found only in one's own mind. Science cannot create a formula for truth, because it must differ for everyone. Just as no two people look alike, so no two people think alike.

Each person has his own convictions about right and wrong. Many of these convictions are based on religious faith and beliefs; others are grounded in common sense. It has been said that it is possible to enslave men's bodies, but never their minds for no man can control what another thinks. "The power of thought is the magic of the mind." As long as this is true, science will never know all the answers.

Carefree days of youth,
Devoid of pressing responsibilities,
Oblivious to the encompassing demands of society.
The freedom to wander and explore
Or lapse into the realms of suspension
And daydreams—no worries, no wonderings
Until the last moment of youthful time
Passes...and we are thrust into the wake of a New World.

1959 ALL-AMERICAN YEARBOOK CRITICAL SERVICE

The Blue and white

In recognition of its merit is awarded

First Class Honor Rating

in the Thirty-ninth National Yearbook Critical Service of the National Scholastic Press Association at the University of Minnesota, School of Journalism, this First day of October, 1959.

Approved by

Fred L. Gilman
Director

Hope proudly received the National Scholastic Press Association's First Class Honor Rating for the 1959 Blue and White.

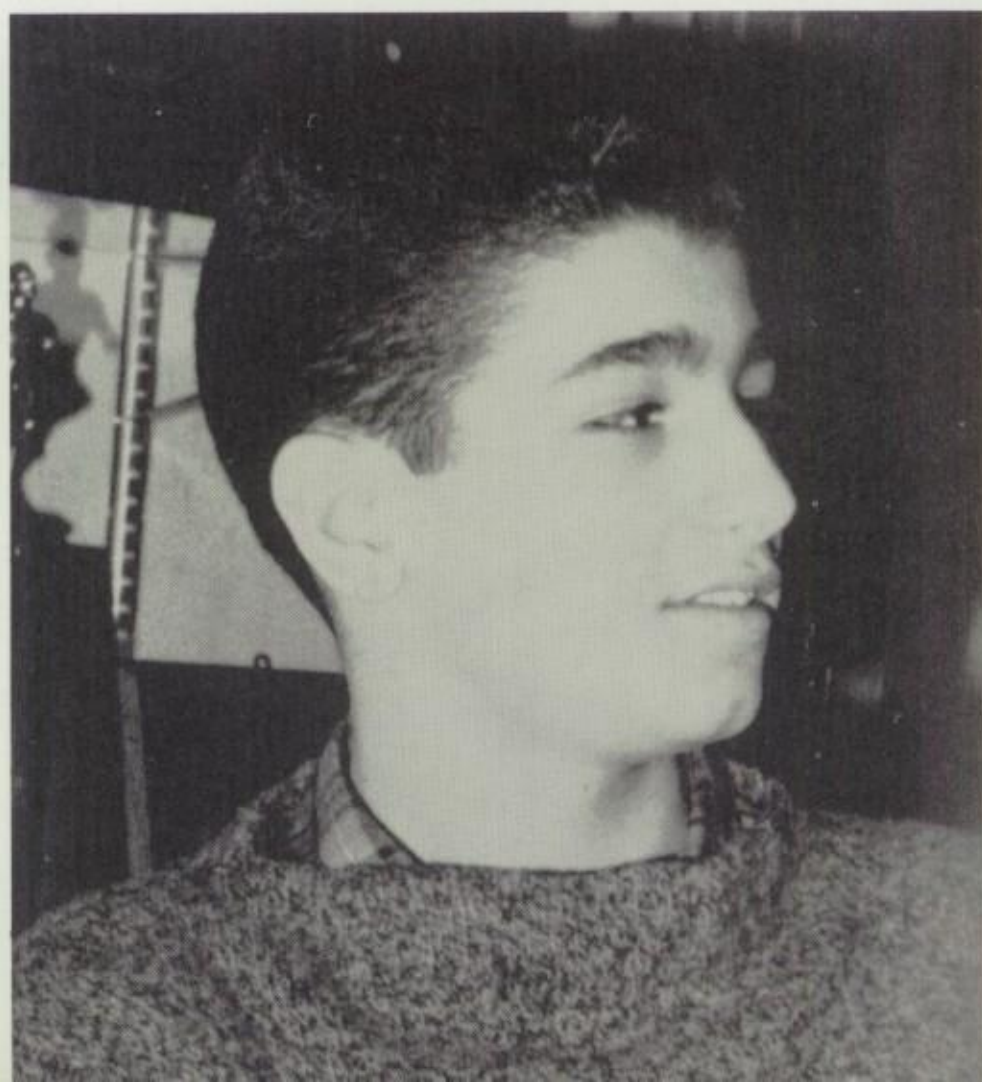

Elaine Bourck received a vote of confidence from the senior girls when they elected her as recipient of the D.A.R. Good Citizenship Award.

highlights

Versatile Joan Zubiago was a winner in the Betty Crocker Talent Test sponsored by General Mills.

Eugene Simone has again become a winner in the Regional Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild Model Car Competition.

John Danielson and Joan Zubiago distinguished themselves by becoming finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Contest.

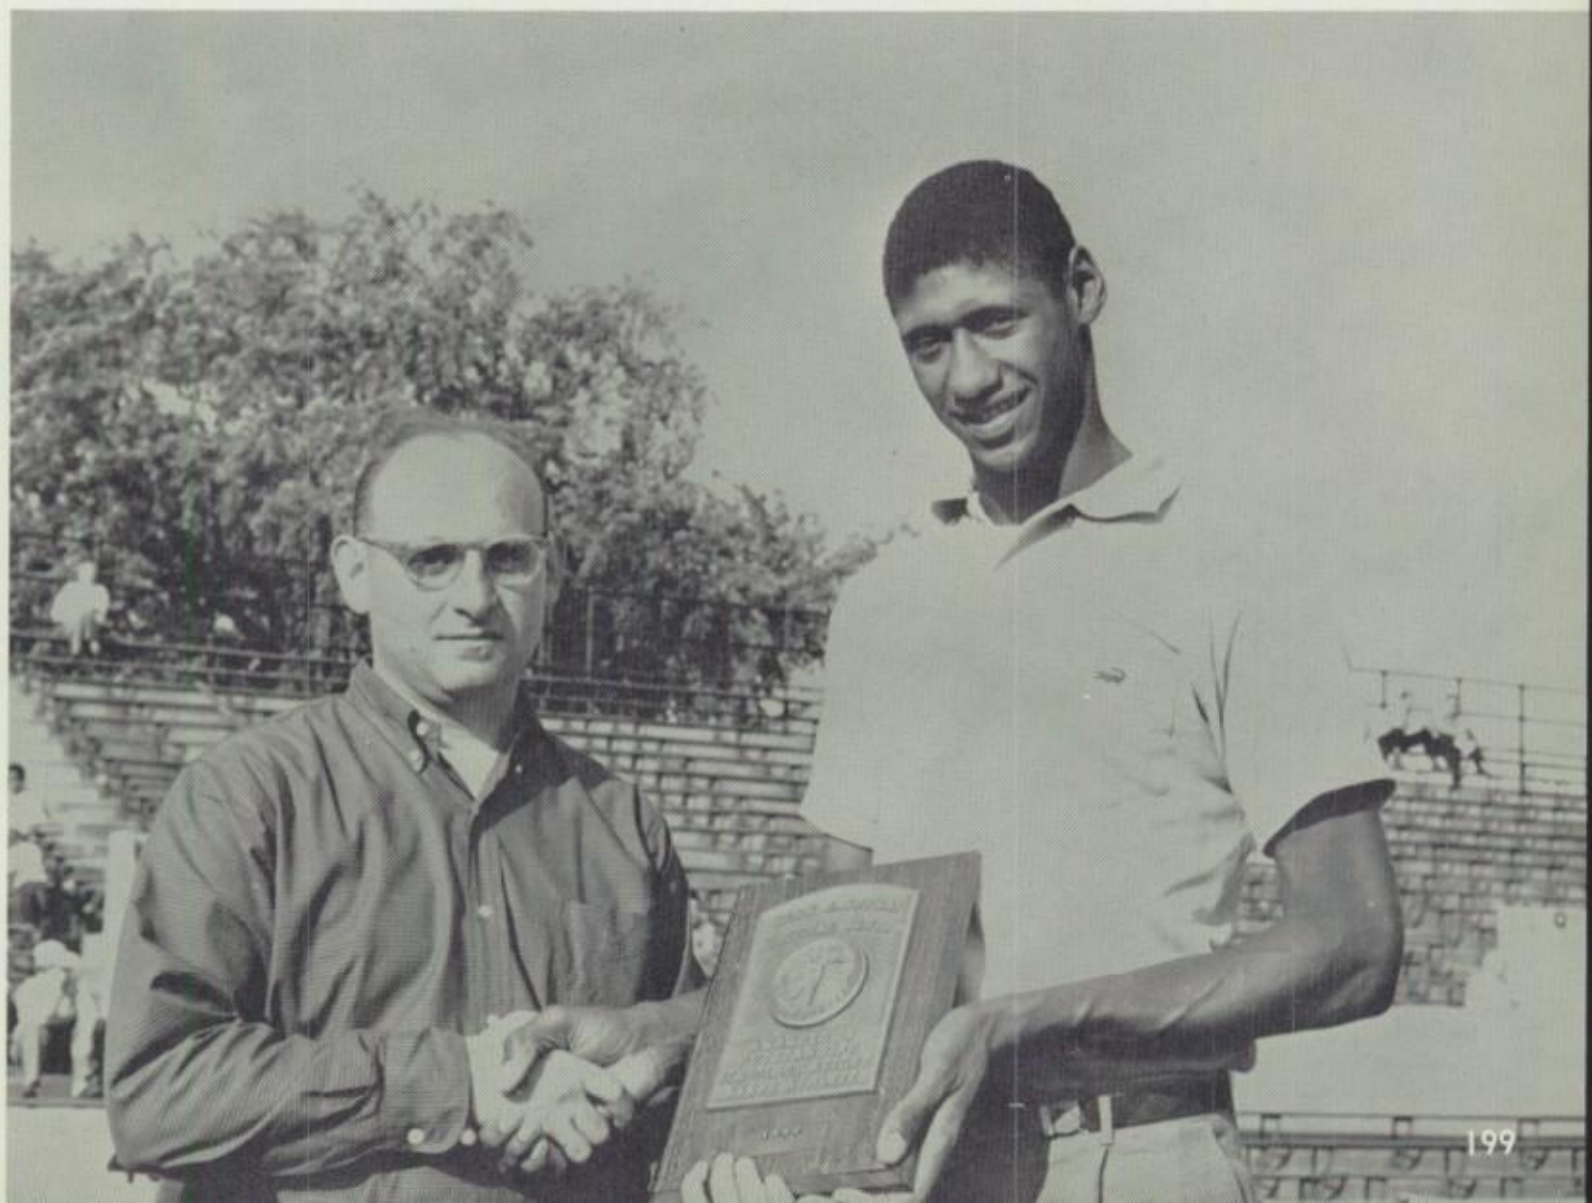

John Danielson started his collection of honors last year when he received the Harvard Book Award.

at hope

Hope High School was well represented in the National Merit Scholarship contest. Twelve Hope students received National Merit Scholarship Contest letters of commendation. They are: Leona Adler, William Bissell, Robert D'Andrea, John Dering, James Flink, Elton Klibanoff, Ray McDermott, Sandra Price, June Richardson, Patricia Shea, Nancy Swartz, and Edward Tower.

Al Santio, now an alumnus of Hope, is congratulated by Mr. Falk, our track coach, for having received another of the many awards given him during his athletic days here. This year Al further distinguished himself and his Alma Mater when he was named R.I. Schoolboy Athlete of the Year by Words Unlimited.

benefactors of the "blue

Many people other than the members of the yearbook staff contributed to the welfare of the 1960 Blue and White.

Mr. Paul Mirante was the patient advisor who wisely worked for the Blue and White's security while allowing the yearbook to develop as a purely student-made book. While Mr. Mirante's guardianship was yearlong, there were other positions of shorter duration but, nevertheless, of vital importance.

During the summer George Avakian of Loring Studios and Mrs. Strauss acquainted the '60 staff with yearbook techniques. Just before the September deadline Ted Berger spotted trouble which Mr. Jules Goldsmith's skill helped to avoid.

When school started Mr. Dattorro and Miss Burnham advised and supplied our artists. Then, too, Mr. Ruoff began the term-long Blue and White account.

More assistance was introduced by Ralph Millspaugh, Ernie Holme, and Bill Grist of Loring's Studios, and Tom Galvin of Taylor Publishing Co. During the term Judy Vance donated many free periods to type for the yearbook, and Charlie Riter became an efficient auxiliary to our heavily-taxed student photographer.

All this direct aid is greatly appreciated and remembered in addition to the moral support and patience displayed by all the parents of the staff members.

Cast Prepares For Big Night

Mrs. Strauss is pleased to report on the progress of the senior play "Lilliom." Rehearsals are scheduled every day after school, and on holidays as well. While the rest of the school is relaxing on Armistice Day, Teachers' Institute, and Thanksgiving Recess, the cast of the play is diligently working at rehearsals from 9 a.m. to long after sundown.

Things are beginning to take form as the props, costume, scenic design, and other committees make special preparations for the big night.

If tree branches, or any weird objects are seen being dragged through the corridors, this is no cause for alarm; they are on their way to becoming props for the play.

Elaine Leum, who has the feminine leading role, confided she was thrilled to have the opportunity to play Julie, a role calling for singing as well as acting.

The masculine leading role, Lilliom, is being portrayed by George Schobel. This is what he had to say:

"Upon learning that I had been selected for the male role, I was a bit worried as well as very proud. It will be a great challenge to me. Of course, I'll be able to breathe a little bit easier on the 13th of December."

The reason for this might be that the curtain for "Lilliom" is scheduled to go up at 8:15 on December 12th.
